Editorial by President of EU-IPFF Steve Jones

Welcome to EU-IPFF's Newsletter March 2021

European PF Patient Summit 2021

充分的准备是关键

[A] The Summit will take place, virtually, from 23rd April to 25th April, leaving some time for special events related to specific events.

While most cancer patients are diagnosed and start treatment in a few months, this is not the case with common cancers, which are not the same as other pulmonary fibrosis patients. Our disease is not the same as other respiratory diseases, and respiratory clinicians and patient organizations for optimal care and advocacy.

The Summit takes place at a time when the pulmonary fibrosis community faces a challenge of raising awareness of the disease with the public and health care professionals. The pandemic has made governments everywhere think more about the health of the public, and we have been calling for increased attention to the health of the public, and we have been calling for increased awareness of the disease with the public and health care professionals.

In the lead-up to the Summit, we arranged four webinars covering the important topics of: Optimising the quality of life for pulmonary fibrosis patients, Pulmonary fibrosis seen through the light of the COVID-19 situation, and previews of new and ongoing research. These were well attended with great Q&A sessions, which bodes well for the Summit.

On 23rd April, a special webinar was held on EU policies impacting people with pulmonary fibrosis, where the policy-makers themselves were panelists. People were given an opportunity to hear directly from the people who are involved in the work to develop EU policies that impact people with pulmonary fibrosis. It was an eye-opening experience for many of the attendees.

We look forward to welcoming you in April 2021.